Motion Picture and Opera Star

VIVIAN DELLA CHIESA TO APPEAR LOCALLY

Vivian Della Chiesa, glamorous star of television, radio, motion pictures and opera will present a concert in the Pacific Grove High School on Thursday, July 13 at 8:15 p.m.

This concert is made possible by the Community Concert Association, which is bringing Miss Della Chiesa to the peninsula in order to swell the amount of money in the Grand Piano Benefit Fund, which the association has been raising during the past three years. The amount in the fund is approximately $2,000 and the officers and membership workers hope that hundreds of local music lovers will turn out on July 13 to assist in swelling the fund for this desirable project.

Miss Della Chiesa has been heard recently on Sunday evenings in a national radio broadcast and local fans are looking forward eagerly to this opportunity to see and hear her in person.

In a recent season Miss Della Chiesa sang for the Salinas and Gilroy concert associations and before that had appeared for the peninsula association.

It is through Miss Della Chiesa's great interest in the Monterey Peninsula that the local group has been able to arrange this concert, plus the fact that she has been doing her national radio programs this summer from the west coast, according to Mrs. Clyde F. Dyke, president of the concert association.

Tickets are available from all membership workers of the concert association and reserved seats may be obtained at the following places:

Abinante's Music Stores in Monterey and Seaside; Barto's Music Store, 6th and Dolores, Carmel, formerly Abinante's; Coleman's Music Store and Dyke's Grove Pharmacy, Pacific Grove, and Midway Drug Store, New Monterey.

FIRST THEATER PERFORMANCES TO BE HELD THREE NIGHTS A WEEK

The Troupers of the Gold Coast at the First Theatre, Monterey, will be playing three nights a week, instead of the regular spring season two, during July and August.

The current laugh-provoking farce, "The Unkissed Bride," will play every Friday, Saturday and Sunday night until its close on August 12, when it folds to make way for "The Red Kiss Girls," which will open on August 17.

Rhea Diveley, now directing at California's First Theatre, has the new show practically cast, and is holding rehearsals every Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights.

B MINOR MASS TO OPEN CARMEL BACH FESTIVAL

Carmel's Thirteenth Annual Bach Festival, the Bi-Centennial, celebrating the 200th anniversary of the death of Johann Sebastian Bach, will open on Sunday evening, July 16, with Bach's monumental Mass in B minor, for soloists, chorus and orchestra. Gastone Usigli, conductor, will direct the five soloists, chorus of 60 and orchestra of 40.

First arrivals will be Ralph Linsley, pianist, and Paul Veneklasen, a bass in the chorus, who are expected in Carmel tomorrow, in the early afternoon. Sunday morning will bring about a third of the string section, coming on the Daylight from San Francisco, and the afternoon Daylight from Los Angeles will bring some dozen or so more, in time for the first orchestra rehearsal, which is scheduled for that evening. (All rehearsals are closed to any but participants). The Bach Festival Transportation Committee will meet the Daylight buses at the Southern Pacific Depot, and load up with the precious cargo of musicians, instruments, suit cases and Festival paraphernalia.

Monday will bring singers and more musicians and arrivals will continue throughout the week until the full Festival personnel is here.

WHO IS IT?

This is one of a series of photographs of persons you should know. All persons pictured are from the Monterey Peninsula and are of interest mainly because they are in public life or are well known to many people for various reasons. For the answer to this week's "Who Is It?" turn to page 12

"THE SWAN" STILL AS FRESH AS EVER

The Wharf Players' next production, Molnar's "The Swan," was first produced in this country at the Cort Theatre in New York City by Gilbert Miller in 1923. This three act play was an immediate success and still is as fresh and sparkling today as when first produced. Dan Tothoroh has assembled a very fine cast for the production and Bill Kappy who is well known for his scenic designs will do the sets for the play. Kenn Smith will produce the show.

"The Swan" is a romantic comedy laid in a mythical kingdom in central Europe at the turn of the century. The plot revolves about the aspirations of a royal princess to have her daughter married to an heir apparent so that the family will again have attained a throne which was lost to them in years gone by. Complications develop from the interest of the tutor who is secretly in love with Alexandra - the princess. It becomes more involved as the story progresses and the entire plan of the scheming mother is nearly wrecked until all the strings are gathered together and untangled by Father Hyacinth - the Princess' uncle who has been sent for to help in the dilemma.

The cast consists of Barbara Norberg, who plays the lead, Hildreth Hare, Elizabeth Goudge, Dee Olivetti, Said Riza, Fred Stevens, David Eldridge, Victor Brune, Bill Fort, Irene Marquis, Allen Knight, Jr., and Warren Masten.

Opening night is slated for July 13.

Valley Notes

The summer season is really in full swing in the valley: the resorts, filled with out-of-town visitors; every extra cottage brimming with summer occupants and their guests, and all the valley dining spots the gathering place of many peninsulites.

The Carousel was the high spot again last week of a large group of visitors from the cast of a Warner Bros. movie on peninsula location. Carmel Valley is the perfect spot for celebrities who want to "be alone" because visiting celebrities have become so frequent as to become quite the usual thing. So, charming valley hospitality is calmly offered and graciously received.

Also seen dining at the Carousel, the Frank Works, and the John B. Morses.

Friday night was gay at Carmel Valley Inn. Craig Smith, affable owner-manager, was host at the first inn barbecue of the season. Out-of-town visitors were entranced by the delicious barbecue served by the swimming pool under the moon and stars.

Rancho Del Monte Country Club, popular gathering place for members and guests, really hummed last week, now that school is out and a number of the members and their families have moved here for the summer.

Seen sunning themselves at the club almost every day, the Leslie Emerys and son, Stu. Also frequent visitors, the Roderick Wilsons, who are developing marvellous tans. Ditto the Even Whitteleys.

On Sunday the club was the scene of entertaining for Dr. and Mrs. R. L. Hane, of Pacific Grove, and a large group of their friends. Also hosting a Sunday evening party were the Wesley Kergans.

Mr. and Mrs. Orta Sisson entertained son and daughter-in-law, the Frank Sissons. The Louis Penfields were down from San Francisco for the weekend.

Club members Joan Tait and Beverly Viney made a charming twosome, both sporting attractive new bathing suits.

Also a gay spot of activity -- the Los Laureles Lodge. Interesting out-of-town visitors included Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Dawner, Jr., from Atherton, who celebrate each anniversary here, and Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Peck, from San Francisco. Mr. Peck is the owner of See's Candy Stores. From Oakland, Mr. and Mrs. Hal Milnthorp of the Oakland Tribune, and from Fresno, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Campbell, who flew to the valley in their own plane.

Among the many local diners at Rancho Los Laureles, Dr. and Mrs. Rudolph von Urban who entertained friends; also Mr. and Mrs. T. F. McComas. The Peter Marbles and party celebrated with dinner and champagne. Also having a good time were Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Livingston, Jr., and the E. Pem Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Draper were dinner guests of their friends, the Sanford Pagannuccis, who are visiting here from San Francisco.

PARTCH RETURNS

Cartoonist Virgil Partch returned to Carmel at the weekend and has rented a home for an indefinite stay. Formerly a Carmel Valley resident, Mr. Partch had been residing in Southern California.

Off Street Parking Law Adopted

An ordinance requiring provision of off-street parking for 66 2/3 percent of tenants in all new apartment construction in the Carmel commercial zone was adopted by the Carmel City Council Wednesday night, and first reading was held for a new law for control of barking and dangerous dogs.

In a short but busy meeting the council endorsed the Red Cross Blood Bank program and also sent a letter to legislative representatives of the federal government urging United States appropriations for the Navy General Line School at Monterey.

In other business the City Council also (1) Granted a Sanitary District right-of-way at the end of Mountain View; (2) Heard a Carmel Beach condition complaint and decided to route horses to the beach via Fourth Street and provide trash cans on the beach along Scenic Way; (3) Renewed three city insurance policies; (4) Transferred the business license for Harmony House to Edward W. Graham; (5) Appointed Charles E. Casey as temporary police officer from July 1 to September 30; (6) Transferred $2500 back from the city's capital outlay fund to the general fund.

TRAFFIC SURVEY REPORT

Carmel's much needed and long awaited traffic survey report will be made during a meeting at 3 p.m. Wednesday, July 26, before the Planning Commission and the City Council. The Carmel Business Association, the Parent-Teachers Association and other groups and persons will be invited to hear the results of the survey.

KIP'S BURGLARIZED SUNDAY NIGHT

Kip's Food Center, Carmel, was entered by burglars Sunday night and robbed of about $1,200. Only the fact that much of the day's receipts were banked during the afternoon saved the loss from being greater.

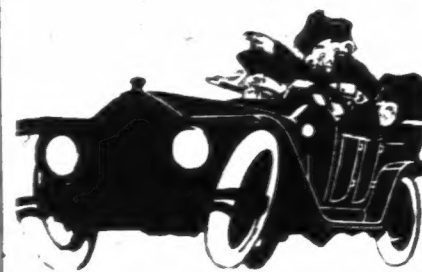

Police said the store was entered from the rear and that the safe in the storeroom was bludgeoned open. Tin snips were probably used to cut away a section of corrugated iron at the back of the market, police believe. Although stock in the store room was in disarray, nothing other than the money was reported missing.

The burglary took place sometime between 9 p.m. Sunday and 7 a.m. Monday, police said.

As many subscribers to the regular edition of The SPECTATOR are interested in news about peninsula military and naval posts, we are including in this week's issue the ARMED FORCES SPECTATOR (see page 7).

Readers will recall that the first issue of the new service publication came out February 10, marking another milestone along the successful road this newspaper has taken since it was first established in October of 1948. Recently readers saw a souvenir edition of the PEBBLE BEACH SPECTATOR, which disseminated information about the famous residential and resort area in much the same manner as the armed forces publication serves officers from Fort Ord, the Navy General Line School, the Army Language School and the many retired officers who live on the Monterey Peninsula. Other communities will be publicized in the same manner in future issues.

Editor of the ARMED FORCES SPECTATOR is Mary Cameron Doran, a service wife, whose husband is an instructor at the Navy School. The publication is issued every other Friday and will be sent regularly free to charge to officers and retired officers who are not on our mailing list. Persons who want the ARMED FORCES SPECTATOR sent to them are urged to drop in and let us know about it.

POINTS OF INTEREST

At Point Lobos, two miles south of Carmel, the coast becomes really wild. Cliffs to which pines and cypresses cling tenaciously drop deep into the ocean. On the spray-swept rocks there are not only thousands of cormorants but also hundreds of sea-lions whose barking can be constantly heard all over the Point. There are little, hidden, smooth-water coves that would tempt anybody to become a smuggler.

At the base of the Point, in startling contrast to its wildness, is the peaceful Carmelite monastery of St. Theresa of the Little Flower. The monastery, which is shown in the sketch at left is "strict cloister." The nuns never leave it and no visitor ever sees their faces. But they have chosen for solitude one of the loveliest sweeps in the world. Their windows sweep miles of this rugged and beautiful coast. (Reprint from Kingfisher Press)

The country round Carmel and Monterey is one of the most written-about as well as the most-painted parts of America.

At least three top-ranking novels have their scene here: Steinbeck's "Cannery Row" and "Tortilla Flat" and Stevenson's "Treasure Island."

This last is not always recognized, in fact, benighted illustrators and movie producers often show the Island as tropical, but here are the facts.

R.L.S. spent 1879-80 in and near Carmel and Monterey. In 1881 he began "Treasure Island" using for its background a glorious jumble of familiar scenes from Big Sur to Monterey Head.

All the way through the book he talks of the pines, of the taller pines with red trunks (redwoods), of the live oaks, the firs, the willows, the broom and the azaleas. He mentions rattlesnakes, and the sea fog.

His blockhouse stood on an open area of sand, dotted with pines, remarkably like the country beyond Seal Rocks.

Most of the coast line of "Treasure Island" can be picked out. For instance Jim Hawkins, cruising in the coracle, went from Carmel round Monterey Head and gives us among other things a most excellent description of Seal Rocks - "For, crawling together on flat tables of rock, or letting themselves drop into the sea with loud reports, I beheld huge slimy monsters - soft snails as it were, of incredible bigness - two or three scores of them together, making the rocks to echo with their barkings. I have understood since that they were sea lions and entirely harmless." (Reprint from Kingfisher Press)

In 1854 a lighthouse was built on Point Pinos. Today that same lighthouse, the oldest on the coast, is still in service. Throughout the whole twenty-four hours watch is kept here, as it has been every day for nearly a century, and at night the original light flashes its warning.

True, the actual method of illumination has changed through the years from whale-oil, to kerosene, to electricity, but that is relatively trivial. The important part of a lighthouse is the "light," the ingenious arrangement of prisms (lighthouses use no reflectors) which concentrates and enormously multiplies the brilliance of the beam. At Point Pinos an ordinary five-hundred watt electric bulb provides, with the aid of the prisms, a twenty-nine thousand candle-power flash. The light still in use is one built about 1850 by Henri Lepaute at Rue St. Honore No. 247, Paris, and brought here by clipper and bullock-wagon.

Nowadays the flashing of the electric bulb is caused by an automatic switch, but, if the electric power fails, a gasoline lantern is set in the light and the old copper shutter is started revolving round it. The shutter is powered by a weight, wound-up by hand, which slowly falls down the centre of the lighthouse tower.

There have been no great excitements during the hundred years. Occasionally the man on watch has seen a fish-boat in trouble and has sent help. But this lack of eventfulness is the greatest tribute which can be paid to a lighthouse. It proves it has admirably done the job for which it was built. (Reprint from Kingfisher Press)

LEST WE FORGET

Americans constantly maintain that the right to complain is their birthright. On occasion, however, it is found that few really have much right to complain. Contrast the conditions of America with those under which Recruits Per G. Seli and John Schwartz of Company B, 12th Infantry lived before coming to this country.

John Schwartz, who was born in Budapest, Hungary, lived the life of a normal boy, happy in his home, fond of his parents. Suddenly, under the pre-Nazi regime of Hungary's Herthy, it was decided that being a Jew was a crime. Shunned by neighbors and children who had been his lifetime playmates, John Schwartz was separated from his parents and sent to a forced labor camp. Then he spent seven months in a concentration camp located in Mauthausen, Austria.

Schwartz, who was on K.P. when interviewed for this story, does not dread his duty in the kitchen. To him the company mess hall, with its great quantities of wholesome food, bread, eggs and milk, is a fairyland. Although he has been in America for a year he still remembers going three and four days at a time without food and on those days when prisoners were fed, the fare consisted of watery soup with perhaps a fragment of potato - if the prisoner was lucky that day.

In May of 1945 Schwartz, and the other inmates of the Mauthausen concentration camp, were liberated by American troops. After the months of starvation and brutal treatment received by the prisoners, Schwartz finally found himself a free man. His first thoughts were of his parents whom he had not seen since he was placed in the forced labor organization. After many days of travel he returned to the neighborhood where the Schwartz family had resided. Here he found that both his parents had been executed shortly after he was taken from them. Only his youth and the need for laborers saved Schwartz from the same fate.

Then Schwartz was permitted to come to America under a special quota for displaced persons. The freedom and high living standards enjoyed by the citizens of the United States impressed him at once. After spending a few months in the United States, Schwartz decided that he would repay a debt that he considered he owed to America.

On that unforgettable day when the American troops liberated him from the nightmare concentration camp in Austria, Schwartz vowed that he would someday repay "Uncle Sam" for what he had done. His three year enlistment is his way of saying "thank you" to America.

Schwartz is learning to speak fluent English and hopes to further increase his knowledge of his adopted country by taking advantage of the United States Army's extensive educational program.

Also in B Company of the 12th is a 19-year old Norwegian, Per G. Seli, whose first experience with the reign of pro-Nazi Vidkun Quisling was a German plane bombing the countryside of Frederikstad as he was starting out for school.

The nine and one-half year old Norwegian school boy was puzzled by the morning happenings and, although still frightened, completed the three mile walk to school. Upon arriving he sought an explanation from his teacher. The teacher, attempting to allay the fears of her young charges, explained that the bombing was a maneuver. During the days and months that followed it no longer became necessary for young Norwegians to be told stories. The grim reality of Quisling's terroristic regime and the Nazi occupation made the schoolboys into men.

After the war was over, young Seli sailed with the Norwegian Merchant Marine and then joined the Norwegian Navy which consisted of six destroyers. His pay in the Navy was the equivalent of 18 or 19 cents a day.

Puffing luxuriously on his American cigarette, Seli commented that it would be necessary to put in two days work at his Norwegian pay scale to purchase a pack of American cigarettes.

Seli's parents migrated to America three years ago, and his father is employed in a mahogany sawmill in Astoria, Oregon. Seli joined his parents a year ago and recently joined the Army, which he has determined to make his career. Upon completion of basic training he hopes to attend the Airborne Training Center at Fort Benning, Georgia.

Both Seli and Schwartz are popular with their fellow soldiers and are rapidly increasing their English vocabularies as they recount their adventures for the benefit of the young Americans who were born in a country where freedom and abundance are taken for granted. Both young new Americans are "re-selling" the United States and the United States' Army to native Americans who have failed to count their blessings.

So, you see, this is really a one-stop laundry station - at 444 Washington Street, corner of Bonifacio, Monterey.

Have found a new shop for you - the DELTA DRESS SHOP - and the best way to introduce you to it is first to mention brand names and prices. The brands will speak for themselves as to the quality to be found, when you consider Minx Modes... Johnny Junior... Debby of California... June Arden... Gail Whitney of California... and many garments with "Bate's Fabrics" tags. The sizes run from 9 to 17 and 10 to 18, with a price range from $8.95 to $14.95, plus quality. You can't make a mistake on any one of your purchases here. The DELTA DRESS SHOP should have in by this time, or very shortly, the very coat for Peninsula summer wear. It is called the "DUSTER" and comes in red, navy or white... full length, worn belted or not... made of butcher linen and the very thing for wearing over your cottons on cool days, and right into evening dress-wear. The price... an unbelievable $9.95... will make one of these heavy butcher line Dusters yours - from the DELTA DRESS SHOP, 110 Webster Street, opposite the Post Office, Monterey.

For the young mothers, PUTNAM AND RAGGETT of Carmel is now carrying the nationally advertised "Tommie" pajamas and "Tommie" coats, in all sizes and colors. PUTNAM AND RAGGETT is your headquarters for Warner's girdles and bras, made of easy-to-laundry and quick-to-dry nylon; a complete line of Carter's wear for both adults and children; Miss Swank slips designed in nylon crepe, rayon and cotton... New sun and sea outfits have arrived, and for those on your guest list who sew, there is a galaxy of materials to choose from. PUTNAM AND RAGGETT of Carmel is a complete department store carrying well known brands, and a large stock is awaiting your selection... at Ocean Avenue near Mission, Carmel.

RANDY'S TOT-TO-TEEN shop has really outdone itself this time! There need no longer be shirt-tails peeking out of little boys' britches with Snappy Chappy of California shirt and pants, made all in one, in their wardrobe. These shirts and pants are available in either seersucker or white broadcloth with elastic banded legs and back opening. These will really simplify the dressing and laundry problems, and are just the thing for sun suits. RANDY has just received a shipment of summer wear, including novelty sun dresses and sun suits... the little girls have wrap-around skirts... and for the boys there are adjustable waist bands - to grow with; also adjustable straps. Would like to remind you that the 7 to 12 size-range is completely covered by RANDY'S - in the triangle across from the Postoffice in Monterey.

To go with the fine food you serve at your next party you might consider the "Lazy-Susan" available at the MARG ELITA GIFT SHOP in Salinas. It has a base of green, with ceramic dishes, two large and five small, in a choice of chateaux, green or yellow. As a novel idea, you leave out the middle dish and place either flowers or a figurine in its place, or whatever your decorative instinct guides you to do. MARG ELITA also has new Bavarian china, Milk glass and Tiffon crystal in the finest selection since before the war. All the new books for both children and us oldsters will be found along with the newest bar accessories, both practical and humorous... as an example of the latter, the new crying towel and "little-squirt" stopper... also a bar apron that will never leave the host without the proper equipment to cope with whatever emergency might occur. All to be found at MARG ELITA, 214 1/2 Main Street, Salinas.

Your pocket book will stand at attention after a one-stop shopping tour through CANNERY SALES SHOPPING CENTER, 1501 Del Monte Extension, Seaside, the peninsula's newest and savingest food mart. FORT ORD IN MOVIES

Shooting at the Fort Ord weapons demonstration area isn't news - except this week when it's being done by Warner Brothers cameras filming opening sequences of "Breakthrough," the story of St. Lo offensive, one of the turningpoints of World War II. Starring in the Lew Seiler directed picture are John Agar and David Brian.

Approximately 50 officers and men of the 2nd and 3rd Battalions, 8th Infantry Regiment, are "on location" with the film company. They will appear as the battle-seasoned men of the 1st Army who broke through in the Battle of the Hedgerows and opened the way for the near-destruction of the powerful German Seventh Army.

The production will be filmed almost in its entirety on the Fort Ord Reservation and adjacent areas during the next four weeks. The Fort Ord coastal terrain and "hedgerow" country near Marina were chosen for their similarity to the locale of the bloody St. Lo campaign.

"Breakthrough" is centered around one platoon which is in the hottest fighting of the invasion and the subsequent action of the Normandy Campaign. It concerns a replacement 2nd lieutenant, fresh from Fort Benning, Georgia, who is ordered to a seasoned outfit in England on the eve of the invasion. The company commander is a neurotic captain who feels the inexperienced lieutenant is a bad risk for his men. However, the fledgling lieutenant is "broken in" by a hard-bitten but sympathetic sergeant and proves himself a capable leader during the invasion and after. The picture shows the slow transition of the second lieutenant into an anxiety-ridden counterpart of the company commander whom he eventually replaces.

Chaplain and Mrs. F. G. Nichols left for a visit to the East coast before sailing to Hawaii, their new duty station being Fort Shafter.

Graduation ceremonies, preceded by a farewell party at the Officers' Club, were held for 126 students of the Army Language School.

Colonel and Mrs. W. S. Shuttleworth are having the pleasure of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Jackson, visiting them for the summer at their home in the Monterey Peninsula Country Club. Mr. Jackson will be leaving soon for Rome, accompanied by his wife, for a year's voice training. The Jacksons have been making their home in Bloomington, Indiana. Mr. Jackson's mother is also visiting the Shuttleworths.

Miss Susan Grimsley and Lt. Comdr. William C. Adler, Jr., USN, a student of the Naval General Line School last year, were united in a military ceremony by the Reverend Michael O'Connell at Carmel Mission on Saturday, June 17. The bride, dressed in a beautiful ivory Chantilly lace ballerina length gown, was preceded into the Church by six naval officers, who comprised the honor guard and formed the sword arch for the couple's exit following the ceremony. Miss Dale Dawson was the maid-of-honor and wore a frock of pink cotton faille and tiny matching hat of tulle. Lt. Nat Toulon, USN, was best man. Members of the honor guard

Colonel Joseph L. Langevin, Deputy Post Commander and Management Officer, Fort Ord, keynotes the opening meeting of the first Institute Conference of the Sixth Army Supervisory Management Program which started at Fort Ord Tuesday, May 23. Main purpose of the four-day discussion was that of acquainting key supervisory personnel with methods and material for administering and conducting the management program at installation level.

who also acted as ushers were Lt. D. Schermerhorn, USN, Lt. (jg) M. Andrews, USN, Lt. S. Brocato, USN, Lt. C. Rich, USN, Lt. (jg) J. Dillingham, USN, and Lt. (jg) J. Christensen, USN.

A reception for the newlyweds was held at the Carmel home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Grimsley, before their departure for Quonset Point, where Lt. Comdr. Adler is now stationed. He is the son of Mrs. W. C. Adler and the late Mr. Adler, of Billings, Montana, and before entering the Navy attended Notre Dame and graduated from the University of Missouri School of Journalism.

Hansen and daughter, Gloria Gena, Friday, June 16, as they left for La Jolla, California, where Mrs. Hansen will make her home while Lt. Commander Hansen is away. He is reporting as executive officer aboard the U.S.S. Chevalier and will be in China for a six month tour of duty. Lt. Commander Hansen was an instructor at the Naval General Line School with the Seamanship and Navigation Department for the past two years, and he and his family made their home at the Hacienda Apartments during his tour of duty. Mrs. Hansen will be missed in the various committees which she has been a very active and competent participant.

Commander and Mrs. K. R. Wheeland entertained their weekend guests, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Irish, of Long Beach, with a cocktail party the first part of June. Other guests included the instructors and their wives of the Seamanship and Navigation staff, and Miss Dorothy Robinson, secretary to the staff.

Commander T. C. Phifer entertained a group of friends at his quarters with a breakfast following the Navy Relief Ball. He also held a rice and curry dinner last Tuesday.

DINNER FOR RETIRED OFFICERS POSTPONED

The regular monthly dinner for Retired Officers of the Monterey Peninsula area, which ordinarily would have been held on July 4, has been postponed to July 11 because of the holiday.

The officers' wives of the Navy Woman's Club scooped the Paris fashions with their "Crazy Hat" luncheon the 14th of June. Mrs. H. G. Leland won first prize with a surrealistic little number which depicted a cocktail party and the morning-after results. Mrs. R. W. Paige's "chocolate sundae" won second place and it was realistic enough to make one want one just like it for dessert that evening. Third prize went to Mrs. F. G. Moore, who came decked out in a very prettily starched and beribboned child's petticoat. The judges had a very difficult time choosing the winners, for every hat was cleverly done. Wives of section D-2 were the hostesses and, with Mrs. E. A. Gendreau, chairman, decorated the tables with beautiful nosegays. Mrs. W. R. Knopke acted as mistress of ceremonies for the choosing of the winning "hats."

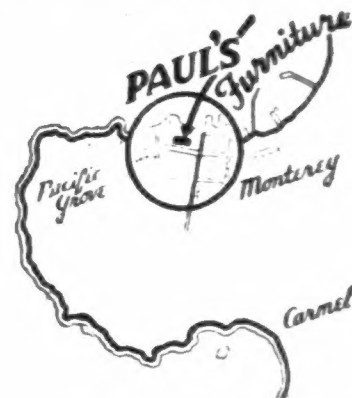

Fond farewells were said to Lt. Commander and Mrs. J. L.

COL. ANNIN RETIRES

Colonel Robert O. Annin, Deputy Post Commander for the Presidio of Monterey, will retire from active Army service today, after having completed 37 years of Army service.

Colonel Annin, a cavalry officer, began his career in 1913 when he entered the Army at Washington, D.C., his birthplace. During the period prior to World War I, he served at various posts on the Texas-Mexico border as troop officer with the 15th and 8th Cavalry Regiments.

With the outbreak of World War I, the Colonel was made Acting Assistant Chief of Staff, G-2, for the 3rd Infantry Division, and in June, 1918, was assigned as a student to the Army General Staff College in Langres, France. In September, 1918, he was assigned as head of G-2 for the Third Army in France and Germany.

Following World War I, Colonel Annin's background was broadened with many assignments to school and executive posts throughout the United States. Among his assignments during the interval between both World Wars were the following:

July to October, 1919, Military Intelligence Department, Washington, D.C.; October, 1919 to March, 1921, AC of S, G-2, 2nd Cavalry, Fort Sam Houston, Texas; Assistant Education and Recreation officer from March to August 1921; Student in cavalry schools from 1921 to 1923; staff duty, Organized Reserve Corps Denver, Colorado from 1923 to 1925, and in 1925 and 1926 he was a student at the Command and General Staff School. In 1926, he was again assigned to duty as a staff officer with the Organized Reserve Corps in Denver, Colorado, and served there until 1929.

Following this assignment, he was appointed executive officer for the 8th Corps Area General Dept. until 1930. He then served as head of G-2 for four years in headquarters, 8th Corps Area, at Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

From 1934 to 1935, he was officer in charge of the War Plans Division for the 8th Corps Area. He subsequently served as commanding officer of the 2nd Cavalry for nearly a year. During the latter part of 1935, Colonel Annin was assigned to Fort Riley, Kansas, as administrative officer. He served in this capacity for two years.

In 1938, Colonel Annin was again assigned to the Organized Reserve Corps, and in 1940 was appointed commanding officer of the reception center at Fort Bliss, Texas. He served there until 1943.

During World War II, Colonel Annin was Camp Commander at Camp Maxey, Texas, serving there from 1943 to 1946. He was then appointed as member of the interviewing and screening board, where he served for one year.

From May to July, 1947, Colonel Annin served as commanding officer for the 15th Training Regiment. In July, 1947, the Colonel was appointed commanding officer for the 22nd Inf. Regt. at Fort Ord. He received the appointment as Deputy Post Commander, Fort Ord, in November, 1948. In May, 1949, he was appointed Deputy Post Commander for the Presidio of Monterey. While stationed at Fort Ord and the Presidio of Monterey, Colonel Annin made his home with his wife at the Presidio of Monterey. His permanent residence is in Westchester County, New York.

ARMY RESERVE OFFICERS
RECEIVE TRAINING

Assuring the modern Army of well trained and efficient combat intelligence teams in case of war, US Army reserve officers with G-2 assignments are now receiving summer training for such tasks.

Opening July 9 at Fort Ord will be one of these Military Intelligence Schools for the training of Reserve personnel. This school, located in building 1066 at Fort Ord, and commanded by Lt. Col. Arthur Hutson, will be capable of handling a class of from 65 to 70 students for the two week period of instruction.

While at Fort Ord as students in the school, the officers will receive intensive training in combat intelligence, interrogation of prisoners of war, order of battle, photo interpretation and work in translator teams.

This two week course at Fort Ord is a part of the over-all training scheme for intelligence personnel in the US Army Reserves in the Sixth Army Area. The school is under the direct supervision of the Sixth Army G-2 section, commanded by Col. Frederick Hein.

Each of the instructors of the school has been handpicked for assignment as a specialist in the particular field that he will instruct.

RECEIVES PROMOTION

Colonel John T. Kilcoyne, Post and Division Chaplain at Fort Ord, recently received notification of his appointment as colonel in the US Regular Army. Col. Kilcoyne has served at Fort Ord as division chaplain since October, 1948.

Born in San Francisco, Kilcoyne attended St. James Grammar School and St. Patrick's Seminary in Menlo Park. After being ordained in 1930 at St. Mary's Cathedral, Col. Kilcoyne was appointed to serve at St. Joseph's Cathedral in Berkeley.

After joining the Army in 1933, Col. Kilcoyne was assigned to the Civilian Conservation Corps with headquarters in Medford, Oregon. From there he was transferred to Ft. Sam Houston, Texas, and the Panama Canal Zone. In April, 1937, he received a promotion to the rank of captain while at Fort Sill, Oklahoma.

With the outbreak of the war, Capt. Kilcoyne was assigned to Camp Roberts, Calif., and then to Camp Chaffee, Arkansas, with the 6th Armored Corps. While with this unit he received his appointment as major. In November, 1943, he was made lieutenant colonel while serving at the Presidio of Monterey.

Following the war, Col. Kilcoyne was transferred to Shanghai, China, and from there to Kyoto, Japan, with the 1st Corps. He returned to the United States in 1948, and was assigned to Fort Ord as chaplain.

Col. Kilcoyne now makes his home at the Presidio of Monterey with his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Lucey.

Carmel Grocery Has New Ownership

The Lucky Boy Market at Ocean and San Carlos in Carmel opened Monday under the new ownership of Walt Pilot, who purchased the store from Lucky Boy Markets, Inc. The new name under which the market will be operated has not yet been chosen.

Pilot has appointed his brother-in-law, LeEarl McCaman, as general manager. McCaman, a Monterey Peninsula resident for 30 years, has been a groceryman and butcher since leaving school. During World War II he served with the army in the South Pacific area.

Johnny Cannon, also a local groceryman, will be in charge of the store's produce department. Before coming to Carmel, Cannon worked in St. Louis and in the Bay area.

Pilot is also a 30-year resident of the peninsula. He is the owner of Walt's Dairy Lunch on Ocean and Mission, which he opened in 1936.

MARRIED SATURDAY

Saturday, July 1, was the wedding date of Elizabeth Werle Orlady, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Page Orlady, of Durand, Wis., and Gerrit Van Sweringen Henry, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit Van Sweringen Henry, of Carmel.

ANSWER TO THIS WEEK'S

WHO IS IT?

Bill Askew, superintendent of streets and parks for the City of Carmel, is featured in this week's "Who Is It?" A native Californian, Mr. Askew was born in 1905 at Fresno, but he moved to Carmel in 1919 with his family, attending school in Carmel and Monterey. His father, a well-known carpenter here, was secretary for the Carmel Sanitary District during the 1920's. Mr. Askew returned to the San Joaquin Valley following his graduation from high school and for several years was a cowboy on ranches in that area. Following his marriage in 1925 to the former Edith Cornelius, he returned to Carmel to go to work for the late Hugh Comstock as a carpenter. A few years later he joined the Carmel City offices and in 1935 was appointed to his present position. He currently serves as second assistant chief of the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department. As for sports and hobbies he still enjoys riding horses, although he isn't doing it professionally any more. Mr. Askew has two sons: Bill, Jr., 22, and Fred, 17.

SPREADING the NEWS...

by Howard Statham

WE HAD A VISITOR at our house the other night who finally found a place to sit among all the debris--which included baby bottles, washing that was wetter after the fog got through with it than it had been when my wife hung it out to dry, and a copy of "Peace of Soul"--a book I've been reading as a part of my never-ending search for the reason we're all here.

After the customary remarks on the weather and how to raise a baby, our visitor, who didn't have her glasses on, asked if we were taking up gardening. No, we informed her, at the moment we had no intention of doing so, and why did she ask? "Well," she replied. "I saw that book about a piece of soil or something and I just wondered."

ANOTHER EXAMPLE of the sad state of error we can all fall into now and then is the story of what befell Colonel Hillyer, of Hillyer's Restaurant, one evening when the phonograph and various other sounds were making it a little difficult for the Colonel to hear what a man at the counter was ordering. He was sure of only one thing, the word "toast"--and since the only thing on the menu that included toast was creamed salmon on toast, the Colonel put the order through. It was duly prepared and delivered. The man looked at it and then at Colonel Hillyer, who knew immediately that all was not as it should be. "Is something wrong?" he asked. "No, I guess not," the man replied, "but those are the darnedest looking poached eggs I've ever seen!"

SATURDAY EVENING I headed for Gallatin's (halfway between the hospital and the jail) in Monterey on my first assignment as a press photographer--and the results of this trip, while they'll never win prizes in photo contests, should at least command the attention of all persons interested in headless artists and scalped ladies.

The event which sent me off on my excursion was the opening of Mr. and Mrs. Gallatin Powers' new restaurant and bar at the Old Adobe, 500 Hartnell Street, where I was welcomed by Mrs. Powers herself, who told me, in effect, that the place was mine (photographically speaking) to do with as I saw fit. What I saw fit to do and what I actually did were two different things, as the results pictured elsewhere on this page will show.

When I arrived, what seemed to be several thousand people were milling happily about, and several of them showed great interest in my activities (and the camera--a polaroid one-minute job), not including one gentleman who scorned the idea of being photographed for the reason, I was later informed, that he was present with someone who was not his wife.

One of the difficulties I encountered during my stay was finding an inconspicuous place to dispose of used flash bulbs. (I finally put them behind a cash register, where they still are unless someone else has removed them.) Another difficulty was trying to develop a picture while cornered behind a piano by two little girls, approximately three and five years old) who stared at me intently and said nothing. No sign of amazement crossed their faces when I opened the camera and pulled out the developed print; they just continued to stare at me. The older generation was much more polite, and several of them even commended me on my abilities as a camera man.

Here are some of the facts I picked up Saturday evening and afterward:

There was plenty of betting that the opening wouldn't come off as scheduled because late Friday night the plumbers, carpenters and painters were still at it. Mr. Powers won all bets, in spite of the fact

Once Upon a Time
By Alexander Victor

This will be a rather odd column today. Instead of using my own material I will quote from a letter I received yesterday from an old friend, Carl Ericson, a countryman of mine who was years ago a Swedish cavalryman and later on Rudolph Valentino's stand-in and stunt man. I particularly appreciate this chap because when I was in Stockholm, Sweden, the last time, he gave me his liquor book. In Sweden you can only get just so much liquor -- and no more.

At any rate here are excerpts from his letter. It was interesting to me and I hope will be to you. And good luck... After I get rested up from a bumpy plane trip I may give you something of my own. "And God bless you all," said Little Tim.

San Francisco
June 21, 1950.

Dear Alexis:

"...Today I sent a very long letter to the newspaper "Sydsvenska Dagbladet" in Malmo. I enclosed a few short articles about some of my experiences in this land of ours.

"Did you know that Enrico Caruso was staying at the Palace Hotel here during the earthquake, 1906? A few days before, he and some other opera singers together with the celebrated conductor Alfred Hertz, arrived here to perform in opera. The quake started to be felt at 5:17 in the morning. In short order several more or less severe quakes were felt. After one of the nasty ones that put the electric lights out of order, cracked the masonry and shattered glass all over the place, came Caruso running down the stairs wildly gesticulating with the arms and crying like a child.

"He rushed over to Hertz, who already had reached the lobby, embraced him hysterically and sobbed repeatedly, "We are doomed, we are doomed." They had to pay a driver no less than $300 to take them out of the city.

"When Caruso reached New York a week later his friends asked him about his experiences in San Francisco. "Give me Vesuvius!" he shouted dramatically, with still shaken nerves.

"The world-famous hotel didn't escape the holocaust, despite its complicated independent fire-protection system, which consisted of 630,000 gallon water-reservoir in the basement, roof-tanks with a capacity of 130,000 gallons, five miles of water pipes, 350 outlets and 20,000 feet of fire hose. The hotel, financed by William Chapman Ralston (who, by the way, was found drowned in San Francisco Bay before its completion), con-tree, Adelina Patti, I. J. Paderewski, Jean de Reszke, and Antonio Scotti, who was with Caruso at the time of the earthquake!

"Houdini was a guest there several times and also Homer Davenport was a frequent visitor. The last guy imported the Arabian full-blood from Arabia which, later, C. D. Clarke, and still later, W. K. Kellogg acquired...and which I mention in my writings..."

Rigmor -- Carl.

that he sprained his ankle just before the opening. While trying to get a case of something or other off a shelf, he and the case went flat on the floor. There was great speculation on the possibility of a broken leg until a quick check-up at the hospital showed it wasn't so. The doctor recommended three or four days in bed but the urgency of the situation wouldn't permit that. No aftereffects, I'm glad to report.

Among those who showed up that afternoon and evening were many whose names are known far and wide, including Robert Buckley, Hollywood producer, and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Bob McKeever, Mr. and Mrs. Jon Konigshofer, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Groggs, Mr. and Mrs. William Hudson, Samuel F. B. Morse, Armin Hansen, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Flavin, Mayor and Mrs. Leslie Smith, of Monterey, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Work, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Boling, Mr. and Mrs. Edison Holt, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Miles Leoni, Matt Jenkins, and plenty of others. Many of them, said Mrs. Powers, sent gifts and flowers, and most of them expressed the opinion that it was one of the most successful parties held anywhere at any time.

Everyone, including old-time residents of Monterey, agreed that the job of redecorating the Old Adobe had been handled with great taste. A lot of the Powers family's own furniture and paintings by Peninsula artists have been used in the restaurant and bar.

The cake which welcomed the guests, and which had the spot of honor on the buffet supper table, was three feet in diameter. A cake like that you should be able to have and eat too, but not with the crowd that was there.

My own personal opinion would be that the opening was a roaring success. From now on it's not likely that there'll be as many people around Gallatin's as there were

Saturday night, but there'll be more room to enjoy a drink and a dinner. The restaurant will be open for lunch from noon to 2:30 and for dinner from 5 to 11. The bar will be in operating condition from noon to 2 A.M.--and no matter what happens, you can always count on complete service. They have the hospital on one side and the jail on the other.

NO MORE ENSIGNS AT NAVY SCHOOL

Ensign George V. Askew, USN, a resident of the officers' quarters and a student officer attending the U. S. Naval School, Monterey, was sworn in last week as lieutenant, junior grade, in a promotion ceremony, by Captain P. D. Stroop, USN, executive officer at the school. He was the only ensign at the school.

Askew was commissioned in the Navy as an ensign in February, 1946. He had attended Mount San Antonio Junior College and in January of 1946 he was designated a naval aviator.

Prior to reporting to the Naval School, Monterey, Lieut. (jg) Askew had permanent duty at the Naval Air Station, Quonset Point, Rhode Island, for two years, and later attended the five term program at Stanford University for a year.
